Munich/Bremen, 01/06/2023. The Build & Construct Division of the Nemetschek Group - represented by Bluebeam and NEVARIS - is the main sponsor at this year's Construction Industry Day. On 14 June 2023, high-ranking representatives from industry, associations and politics will address the invited guests in top-class presentations. At 3 pm, Ruth Schiffmann, successful CEO of NEVARIS and Managing Director of Bluebeam for Central and Western Europe and a member of the on-site panel, will give a key talk about the topics of BIM and sustainability.

"For us, this special event offers a great opportunity to anchor BIM planning and construction with regard to the building life cycle in a holistic context," says Ruth Schiffmann, talking about Nemetschek's involvement with Bluebeam and NEVARIS at this year's Construction Industry Day. She continues: "The Nemetschek Group with its brand network supports the concept of a sustainable circular economy through a wide range of digital applications, services and comprehensive know-how. Representing the entire construction software industry, we want to bring the concept closer to the audience in Berlin. This is because building today means above all thinking about our children's tomorrow, protecting resources, respecting the existing building stock - and making an important contribution to this through our products and solutions."

Besides Ruth Schiffmann, the speakers will include Vice Chancellor and Federal Minister for Economic Affairs Robert Habeck and Federal Minister of Finance Christian Lindner. Also present will be Federal Minister for Housing, Urban Development and Building Klara Geywitz, who will open the summer party at the Tipi am Kanzleramt Theatre on the evening of 14 June 2023.

Construction Industry Day will be opened on 14 June at 1 pm by Peter Hübner, President of the German Construction Industry Association. The focus will be on sustainable construction, expansion of the transport infrastructure, procurement of affordable housing, securing skilled labour and the digital transformation. The event will be hosted by German TV news anchor Constantin Schreiber.
