Software Specialists Nevaris and Bluebeam enter into partnership

Bremen/Munich, September 14, 2023. Effective July 1, 2023, NEVARIS Bausoftware GmbH and Bluebeam GmbH have entered into a comprehensive partnership. In the future, the close cooperation of the two construction software manufacturers for the DACH market will primarily extend to the joint distribution of the core products NEVARIS Build and Bluebeam.

Through their cooperation, NEVARIS and Bluebeam are no longer just two sisters within the brand group of the Nemetschek Group, to which they belong, but are literally "shoulder to shoulder" with their solutions in the construction software market.

The partnership of the two specialists was obvious because the product solutions of NEVARIS and Bluebeam complement each other perfectly in the design and construction process. This step is underpinned by the fact that both companies have been managed by the joint managing director and industry expert Ruth Schiffmann for over a year.

Ruth Schiffmann sees this development as the consistent continuation of a strategic development that was initiated years ago: "The groundbreaking partnership between NEVARIS and Bluebeam will bring our proven solutions for the construction industry closer together. Many of our customers already use both platforms and have expressed the desire for integrated workflows, which we are already working on implementing. Our cooperation offers the opportunity to further optimize customer experiences and simplify procurement processes for our customers - everything from a single source. The combined expertise promises innovative opportunities for all of us."

Ruth Schiffmann wants to further build on the strengths of her brands for Germany, Austria, and Switzerland and uncover joint potential for the future. With this chosen path, she is relying on the successful synergies of both companies. To make this possible, the NEVARIS as well as Bluebeam staff have been intensively trained.
